

CTG Implements Secure, Reliable Private Cloud at Andreas Capital

The Client

Andreas Capital, founded in early 2010, was built on its founders' complementary expertise from the institutional investment and banking worlds. The company provides advisory services for their clients' private investment portfolios with the advanced tools and skills of large international institutional investors, but the personal dedication and integrity expected from a trusted family friend.

The Challenge

CTG had provided infrastructure Managed Services and end-user support to Andreas Capital for many years when a new need arose. Their goal was to outsource their IT infrastructure by working with a reliable partner who would be able to support its business growth in a rapidly evolving environment with security and efficiency.

The CTG Solution

CTG addressed this challenge by integrating their systems and applications in a Private Cloud architecture, ensuring a smooth transition with no service breakdown for end users and allowing business alignment through close Service Management.

CTG successfully completed the project while achieving the client's objectives:

Cloud Services

- Implementation of a Private Cloud
- Smooth transition
- Availability of applications: 99.9%
- Security, integrity, and confidentiality of data
- Logical segregation of network and systems
- Integration of business applications
